1. Several thousand workers are employed on the extension of the Piatra-Neamt-Bicaz railroad line to the cement factory at Bicazul Romanesc. Three to four thousand prisoners make up the seventh and eighth working companies, which consist of political prisoners and suspected saboteurs respectively.
 2. Both companies are billeted in a camp on the outskirts of Bicazul Romanesc village. The camp consists of several wooden huts, is surrounded by three rows of barbed wire fence, and has a guard of soldiers armed with revolvers. Only workers wearing a white arm band with the camp emblem are allowed on the working site. Carters loading the excavated earth for removal are forbidden to approach the prisoners or speak to them.
